We Understand Expenses Change.

Federal financial aid regulations allow Randolph College to adjust your cost of attendance (COA) if education-related expenses exceed the costs already included in your cost of attendance budget.

The following items are considered for a cost of attendance adjustment:

- Book, course material, supply, and equipment costs that exceed the amount included in the cost of attendance.
- Optional Course fees on your Billing Statement.
- Purchased or leased computer or tablet.
- Housing payments if the amount exceeds what’s included in the cost of attendance budget.
- Commuting or travel expenses required for your degree program.
- Field trips and conferences (only one adjustment allowed per semester).
- Medical expenses are not covered by health insurance.
- Childcare expenses for dependent children.

The following items are not considered for a cost of attendance adjustment:

- Consumer bills (i.e.: cell phone, car payment, insurance, utilities, etc.).
- Costs associated with outstanding consumer debt.
- Off-campus living expenses that exceed the budget amount provided for housing.
- Food and on-campus meal expenses for off-campus students.
- Relocation expenses.
- Interview expenses.
- Clothing for self or family.
- Pet or hobby expenses.

The review process:

- The review process will take five to ten business days, and you will be notified once the cost of attendance adjustment form has been reviewed.
- Submitting a cost of attendance adjustment form does not guarantee your cost of attendance will change. If loans are increased due to a cost of attendance adjustment, it is your responsibility to take the necessary steps to secure the additional loan funds.
